JEFFRIES AND RUHLIN TO MEET.

Olympic Club of Butte Offers Big Prize for a "Scrap."

William Madden, manager of Gus Rubin, the heavy-weight pugilist, now in Butte, Mont., has announced that he has been offered a purse of $20,000 by the Olympic Club of that city for a meeting between Rubin and Jeffries.

Prize fights are permitted in Butte, and the saucer track, where it is proposed the fight shall be pulled off, is an ideal spot.

The club offers to hold the contest by daylight, to give the fighters the best of the gross receipts (guaranteeing them to amount to $20,000), and also two-thirds of the picture privileges. The fight is expected to come off in September.

Madden is very enthusiastic over the offer and is eager to reach San Francisco, where he will meet Jeffries and endeavor to reach a speedy agreement. He says there is no plausible reason why the match should not be arranged at once.

Madden has the Olympic Club of New York. This management agreed to do. Sporting men believe the fight will surely come off.

Notes of the Wheel.

The final of the one-mile handicap in tonight's meet at the Coliseum is expected to be the closest handicap event of the year.

"Tom" Linton of Wales has retired from the international middle distance contest and has sailed for home. His place has been filled by "Jimmy" Moran of Chelsea, Mass.

Henri Ray, representing Henri Desfranges of the Parc des Princes track at Paris, has offered terms to "Jimmy" Michael and John Nelson to compete on an indoor track in the French capital during the winter. If they accept the terms they are to leave for France in September.

The members of the police department have branched out from pursuit races and are now taking an active part in the handicap events.

A police "open" will be an event in one of the future meets at the Coliseum.

"Major" Taylor, T. J. Gascoyne and Sydney Jenkins have received offers from Henri Desfranges of Paris for a season of racing in Buenos Ayres, South America, beginning October 25. For a three months' season he guarantees $10,000 in prizes, while for six months he promises $20,000 in prizes. It is believed here that Desfranges intends taking French and German riders also to Buenos Ayres.

John Hill, who has been improving his time for the half mile in his sprint work on the local track.

Harry Bryan, son of Manager Will C. Bryan of the Coliseum, has taken to the wheel and spends the greater part of his time training on the boards.

"Jimmy" Michael rode ten times behind pace, in 15m. 33.5s. His time for the last five miles of the journey was 7m. 22s. The tenth mile was done in 1m. 29.3s. These times are claimed to be the best ever made on the beach track.

George H. Collet, the New Haven cyclist, has been suspended by the Coliseum board of control pending an investigation of his alleged fouling of Kramer and Wilson in the championship race at New Haven on Tuesday night.

Nearly a score of fast professional riders, including Floyd MacFarland, "Tom" Cooper, Frank Kramer and other circuit followers, have declined to make their entries for the meet at Vailsburg on Sunday, unless the purses offered be increased in size. They claim that by their weekly attendance they aid in drawing from five to seven thousand spectators every Sunday, and that the purses given are not commensurate with the gate receipts.

The senatorial aggregation, now in Detroit, used their bats very effectively in yesterday's game, and defeated the Tigers by the score of 8 to 6. The Detroit lads had the hollow honor of making more hits, but they were scattered, and for the most part ineffective, while the Washington boys got theirs in nice clusters in the third and fourth innings and landed the game.

Wyatt Lee did the twirling for the Senators. The Detroiters could start off his delivery in the first three innings, and things looked equally, but thereafter Mr. Lee served up his curves and shoots in the most clever style, with the result that there was very little doing in the base-hit line. The other eight Senators were also seen to good advantage, Billy Clingman making the only misplay of the game; but the veteran short stop made so many brilliant stops and throws that his one misplay was forgotten.

Billy Coughlin had nursed his injured wrist so well the day previous that he was enabled to get back in the game yesterday, and, in addition to playing light-edged ball, gave the other players confidence.

Detroit's premier twirler, Yeager, was on the rubber for the Wolverines, and he started out like a three-time winner. For two innings the Senators could do nothing with their little sticks, but in the third and fourth they sent the ball whizzing to all parts of the field and drove Mr. Yeager into retirement. "Lefty" High, late of the Virginia League, then took up the running, and was effective the rest of the game, but the battle had been won, as Lee held the Detroiters safe all the way. The fielding of the Wolverines was very loose, and was the prime cause of Yeager's retirement, six misplays being charged against them.

After Casey had been retired in the first Holmes singled into right and went to second while Barrett was being thrown out at first. Gleason then hit a hot one to Clingman, and on the latter's wild throw to first Holmes crossed the plate. In the second Detroit got two more runs, and the contest began to look like a runaway race. Nance started the trouble with a double to left, and went third on a sacrifice. Quinn crossed the plate. Bulow then hit a long fly to Farrell, and Nance crossed the plate. A timely double by Yeager sent Crockett in with the second all.

It was time for Washington to wake up, and at their third turn at the bat they did so. Quinn sent a grounder to short, and Elberfeld made a disastrous fumble. Billy Clingman was then passed to first by being hit with a pitched ball, and when Yeager sent an error on a grounder to short, Quinn crossed the plate. Yeager lost his effectiveness for the time being, and three timely singles by Waldron, Farrell and Dungan followed, showing three more runs over the plate.

The Tigers got one of these back in the same inning, tying the score, on three rattling hits by Gleason, Elberfeld and Nance.

In the fourth Washington went to the front and was never headed thereafter. Foster began business with a clean drive to center, and when Coughlin tried to sacrifice him to second Crockett made an error and both were safe. Quinn then succeeded in making a sacrifice, moving both runners up a base. Billy Clingman sent a line single into left and went all the way to third when Nance let the ball get by him. Foster and Coughlin scored. Lee secured an outshoot on the end of his bat, and when Barrett gathered it in, out in center field, Clingman had no trouble in scoring.

In the fifth and sixth innings neither side scored, but in the "lucky" seventh the Senators chased their eighth and last run over the plate. Nance, sent one of those tantalizing short flies into right and Clingman's beautiful double crossed the plate.

Holmes drove out a triple in the same inning and scored on a fly to Waldron. In the eighth another tally was placed to their credit. Nance took off a triple this time and scored on an out to left. But it was their dying effort, neither side scoring in their last turn at the bat. About 1,600 witnessed the game.
